Christmas is my favorite time of the Year

I know better than to say that Christmas is my favorite time of the year! (To say so is a cliché extreme; a writer’s no-no; an editor’s chagrin; a reader’s old tired-out boring expression.) But there’s no other words that will express it this late at night. So I said it. This morning the Sunday School Department will be presenting: “Felix Finds Christmas”.

I know very little about the play this year, but from what I can gather from dependable sources, we are in store for a special treat. Enjoy yourselves today as the children share their talents with you. In just a few short weeks we’ll be wrapping up another year, and we, as a nation, a church, and as individuals have met many challenges. The one thing that stands out in my mind about this year, is not the anniversary celebration, although it was phenomenal, nor was it hardships we have faced this year, although we’ll all have been impacted by it for years to come. The one thing that stands out in my mind about this year is how faithful and dependable God is when we put him first above everything else in our lives.

Not one time has God ever failed me. I remember that I used to ask for things amiss. Occasionally—I’d get prayers answered—but not often enough. God chose to answer my prayers according to his will. That, at first, was hard for me. I even got so bold as to believe that I could change the mind of God with my begging. (It didn’t work.) He always answered my prayers according to his will. I am thankful that he knows what is the best thing for me.

We can put our faith in God and he will help us to walk through our troubles. If we trust God we can be like Paul in 2 Corinthians: “We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair; persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed.” (2 Corinthians 4:8-9).

It’s time to turn our focus to the upcoming year. Next Sunday, we’ll be having one of the most important services of the year: the Candlelight Service at 7 p.m.. The song selected for the choir is a reminder for us all, that God has everything under control. His plan is for us to prosper, and be in good health, as our soul prospers.

POG Choir will include the children’s choir, with our lead soloist being Caidence Sumner. Let’s start the new year right! As we spend time with our families this year, let’s remember just how blessed we truly are to live in such a great nation. May God bless you and keep you safe. —gm
