“Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you. Henceforth, I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth: but I have called you friends; for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you. Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that Your fruit should remain that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name he may give it you.”

A True Friend...

Here I am, Lord, walking out deeper for thee.
As far as my eyes can see, there's nothing but the sea.
I'm walking alone and stepping on stones that soon will disappear.
“Where are you God?” I asked, while I frantically search for the pier.

In my desperation, I cry out, “Oh, Lord, how could you leave me?”
I heard his gentle voice full of his love and peace say, “It is my will.”
He said; “Daughter, did you see the sea, as you walked out deeper still?”
“Yes, Lord. I saw the deep and troubled sea.” Jesus said, “Look again.”
“When I looked, I saw that even though the sea was raging, Jesus was carrying me.

Friends, without them life is... The first thing that comes to my mind is that without a friend my life would be empty. I haven't always felt the need to have a friend, choosing rather to spend a great deal of time on my own, alone with my own thoughts and plans. That slowly changed when I would see other people around me able to share their lives with each other. It is such a blessing to have someone who cares about you. When you aren't having a good day, your friend will overlook your cantankerous moods and know what not to say. It is good to be able to sit in a room and remain silent.

A friend will allow you to exist and find peace. We spend hours having to talk on our jobs. (That has always been hard on me, because I write, and I have a difficult time conversing.) I spend hours thinking about the projects that I'm working on, or those that I haven't found the time to pursue. But when I'm with a friend, I don't feel pressured to fill in the gaps with small talk. If I talk, it's okay, but if I don't, that's okay too.

When I was introduced to my greatest friend my life was complete. We are complete in him, Jesus Christ. It feels so good to know that I've been redeemed. I can sit with my friend and I don't have to talk, he knows my very thoughts and the intents of my heart. We walk together through all of the day, and when I have the pressures of daily life closing in on me, I can turn to my friend and he will be right there to carry me through.

He has the time to spend with me, but what is so precious about this friendship he has the time to spend with each one of us. He is never late; he is never too busy; he never gets depressed; he never loses his compassion for our needs. He sticketh closer than a brother. And when I go to sleep at night, he doesn't leave me. He watches over me.

If this is the first time that you have visited with us we invite you to worship with us in spirit and in truth. You are welcome to visit us often. Jesus is here right now; you can reach out and touch him. —gm

God Spared My Life

My miracle took place, September 1975. I was 21 years old and had only been married for one month. I was driving down a narrow country road, it had rained, and I was driving a Corvette which sit low to the ground. I could see the water spraying up off the tires; a young guy on a motorcycle was following too close, and I was watching him in the rear view mirror thinking that he's going to get wet.

I got too close to the edge of the road and I over corrected, and was zig-zagging across the road, went across a ditch, and was heading straight for a huge tree. I closed my eyes and screamed JESUS. Once the car stopped, I got out and the car had stopped right at the base of the tree. I knew without a doubt that God had spared my life. -Carol Creech
