Whose Report Will You Believe?

When it comes right down to it, we choose to believe the things that we want to believe whether they are correct or our own wishful thinking. You would think that the Israelites would have had a better attitude when they were delivered from Egyptian bondage and led to the Promised Land; after all, they had God on their side.

Shouldn't going in to possess the land be a piece of cake? Didn't God lead them out of Egypt? Didn't the Lord part the Red Sea? And certainly, we couldn't forget how God caused manna to rain down from heaven to feed them on a daily basis. It wasn't a week's supply—it was fresh every day except the Sabbath. On the day before the Sabbath, they gathered enough for two days.

They were never hungry; but still, they chose to complain. They'd lament that back in Egypt they could have all of the onions and garlic that they wanted. Or, they might say things like, if they hadn't left from Egypt they wouldn't be wandering around in the wilderness. Do you get the impression that maybe, the Israelites made a choice to chronically complain rather than to believe God?

Out of twelve spies sent out to search the land, only two had a positive report. The other ten spies saw the same promised land, criticized their abilities, and doubted God would give them the land. Joshua and Caleb had a different view because they looked at the situation through God's eyes. They believed that God was able to deliver the giants into their hands and that they could go in and possess the land.

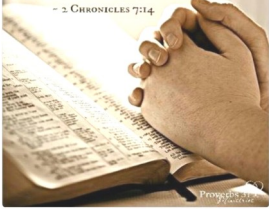

Can we possess God's promises? Whose report you believe depends on whose eyes you are looking through. I, for one, believe in the report of the Lord. There is nothing that I need that he won't supply if I believe. If there are mountains in your life, you can speak to the mountain and tell it to move. The mountain will stay if you don't believe, but if you believe, then you can watch the mountain crumble by the power that is within you. The spies went to search out the land that flowed with milk and honey, but their lack of confidence in God's ability and willingness to help them cost them the promised Land!

Whose report will you believe? We shall believe the report of the Lord. His report says, I am healed; his report says, I am filled; his report says, I am free; his report says, victory. Joshua and Caleb gave a good report and they were the only two of the original Israelites who left out of Egypt to cross over into the Promised Land.

It's important to renew our commitments. I'm more convinced than ever that we're living in a time where being faithful is crucial. We don't know the day nor the hour that the Lord will return, and we aren't guaranteed that we'll even have enough time to do the work that he's called us to do if he delays his coming. What we can know is that until he comes, we must work!

Whose report will you believe? It's not too late to start building a legacy with fresh commitments and a new vision; aren't you ready to invest in something that will reward you for eternity? We invite you to enter into his presence and worship with us. -gm

Willie's Korner

Through the Eyes of a Child:

SCHOOL A little girl had just finished her first week of school. I'm just wasting my time," she said to her mother. "I can't read, I can't write and they won't let me talk!"

BIBLE A little boy opened the big family bible. He was fascinated as he fingered through the old pages. Suddenly, something fell out of the Bible. He picked up the object and looked at it. What he saw was an old leaf that had been pressed in between the pages. "Mama, look what I found," the boy called out. "What have you got there, dear?" With astonishment in the young boy's voice, he answered, "I think it's Adam's underwear!"

POLICE It was the end of the day when I parked my police van in front of the station. As I gathered my equipment, my K-9 partner, Jake, was barking, and I saw a little boy staring in at me "Is that a dog you got back there?" he asked. "It sure is," I replied. Puzzled, the boy looked at me and then towards the back of the van. Finally he said, "What'd he do?"
